Discussion

Each plant chosen for Bladreuse boasts a list of healing properties a mile long, treating everything from sore gums and eye problems to irritable bowel syndrome and skin irritation.

Fennel is a licorice-flavored herb used to relieve gastric pain, bloating, gas, burping and nausea. It is also used to relax smooth muscle, relieve depression, act as a natural diuretic to flush toxins from the body, improve female reproductive health, and naturally suppress appetite.

Bilberry, a cousin to blueberries and cranberries, are loaded with anthocyanosides, potent plant pigments with powerful antioxidant properties that scavenge free radicals and protect cells from damage. Bilberry acts in a number of ways to ensure optimal wellness, including improving diarrhea, eye problems, varicose veins, poor circulation, and treating heavy metal toxicity. Supplementation has shown to decrease the risk of cardiovascular disease, stroke, cancer, macular degeneration, high cholesterol, and Type II Diabetes.

Witch hazel was first used by Native Americans, who took particular interest in it because of its odd ability to bloom in the dead of winter. Since then, its lovely flower and other plant parts have been used as a natural astringent to improve skin health, prevent infections, and heal wounds. Taken orally, witch hazel may cause an upset stomach or allergic reaction, so be sure to take as your qualified health provider directs.

Burdock root is an ardent blood purifier that detoxifies heavy metals from the body, improves circulation, and cleans out the lymphatic system. It is also effective in aiding digestion and stabilizing blood sugar levels, decreasing complications from diabetes, and treating cancer, arthritis, tonsillitis, and spleen complications.
